LETTER

FROM

EDITORS

Hi! Welcome to issue #0 of NoPants magazine. In the years recently past, NoPants magazines didn't even exist. So who really gives a shit? Not us. And we're the establishment! What the hell are we talking about?

Johnny and Renaldo

Ya know, nobody ever reads these things anyway. We could put anything in this column and go on and on and the reader would never know!

Yours truly,

Johnny

and

~~RENALDO~~
you know who!

whoops!

NoPants HEADQUARTERS Explodes in Dazzling Display

2:35 am MOUNTAIN TIME, Tuesday —
NoPants headquarters exploded early this Tuesday morning, showering fireworks all over the sleeping city. Renaldo, No Pants asst. editor, was quoting as saying, "On snap! That's where I left that gasoline and those fireworks!" Many citizens were delighted at the show, but pissed that they were woken during "a good f*%ing dream." No people and one donkey were injured in the blast. ☑

There had to be a time when nobody ran. Older generations always talk about how younger generations "move too fast." Professional runners always break the speed records of their athletic ancestors. No doubt then, our walking was somebody's running circa 263 years ago. Sloths must have been a sign of solidarity and expert pacing. Donkeys must have been the chosen transport because they moved at a steady clip. Look at joggers today - flying by and flailing their arms like a monkey on uppers. "Peoples is peoples." - Pete, The Muppets Take Manhattan

Storytime

BEHIND the SCENES

NoPants base of operations at the corner of 13th and Sansom.

"Do a little dance, make a little love."

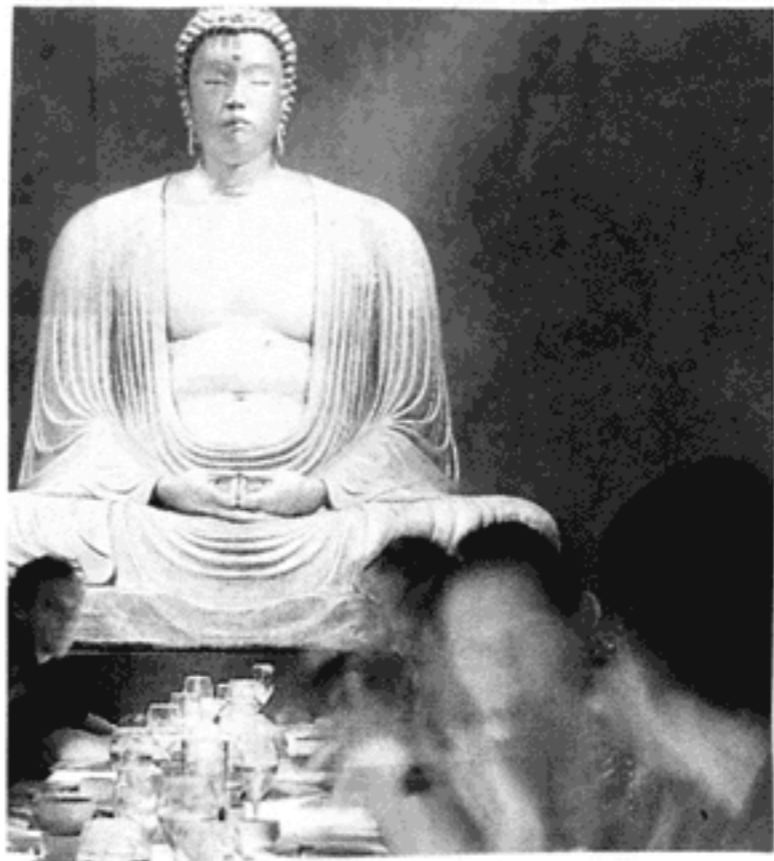

The NoPants Jukebox NoPants authorized report

What's on our stereo?

1. "Super Afro Beat" The Daktaris (soul-funk from Nigeria)
2. "40 Boys in 40 Nights" The Donnas (hard rock from NYC)
3. "Kiss" Prince (funky guitars and falsetto from Detroit)

NoPants is also a corporately run company open to the public on the stock market, NoPants, INC.

Here at NoPants 'zine, we work painstakingly around the clock to produce each delicious issue. The content is assembled by "the crew" (pictured below at right). After our designer Q lays it out, editors Johnny and Renaldo give it the O.K.

Obviously, no matter which way you cut it, NoPants is an exciting opportunity for journalist whores, and greedy capitalists!

IN this issue's Arts & Entertainment, NoPants would like to feature 3 upcoming musical acts from across the U.S. of A.

unlicensed attorneys at LAW rural Pennsylvania can barely contain these rock n'roll bad boys. the sound is raw but its got soul and charm, if not the pure unhampered melodies of revolution itself. check them out at <http://www.mp3.com/unlicensed>. (staff writer Tito)

Exclusive! 1/2 of the Band known as Unlicensed
Attorneys at Law will perform at CMU (Pittsburgh, PA) on Oct. 30 \Rightarrow more on this to come.....

ONE ★ LAST ★ CHANCE

Emotional rock. Say what you want, but the kids love
it. And these fellows pack a mighty dose to boot.
Hailing from Fredonia, NY, these college boys are all over the Buffalo scene like a cheerleader on diet pills. Packed with passion, they won't let you down.
check them out at <http://www.onelastchancerock.com> —
you can get yourself some pins & stickers, and soon, their debut CD "Mom... I Wanna be a Rockstar!!"
(plus their drummer is a sexy beast, so I've heard) (staff writer)
Rick Nareno

BREAKING NEWS! Manny Cox and Harry Thalangers are working on their new groove based album "Chinilla".....

Don't worry.
We'll be back.

In the meantime, go find yourself some love! NoPants would like to thank: Ronald Reagan, defense attorney Al Willard, and Lil Debbie. We'll be back with another issue in a couple weeks, weather permitting. To get more NoPants, email nickmarino72@mail.com. Thanks for reading and may the horse be with you. Good-nights.
